VII. Falling In Love With Bending 115

If you curve the drawn air down just right in the harmonica's air chamber, the pitch of the note will lower. Learning to bend can add 12 additional notes and let you speak, slur and slide your way into the blues. This chapter is for beginners and intermediates, and includes use of hands for compression and that talking sound.

VIII. Straight Harp Accompaniment 137

The Cave Boys get a chick singer and learn the hard way that some situations call for soft, melodic accompaniment. This easy chapter helps show you how good it can sound.

IX. Cross Harp Campfire Melodies 157

In 2nd position, play some of the greatest songs ever sung. Guitar chords are included for your play-along pleasure. Included is a special chart on transposing 1st position notation to 2nd position. Learning these songs in the blues style teaches you melody, bends and improvisations.

X. Third Position Slant Harp—A Big Time Harp Style 169

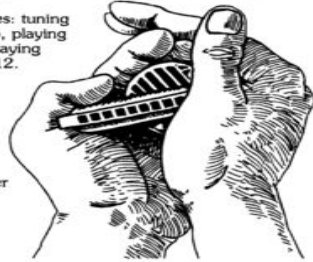

Now play your C harp in the key of D minor. It's easy and sounds great.

XI. Hubie's Blues—Intermediate and Advanced Harp or Everything I Almost Forgot to Put in the Book 187

This is advanced stuff on many issues: tuning your harp, mastering amplified harp, playing chromatic blues, tongue-blocking, playing harp in positions 1 through 6 plus 12.

Resource Guide and Record Index 214

Here's the key of harmonica you need to jam with classic harmonica recordings plus a listing of essential harmonica resources and Jon's other harmonica products.
