

Holistic Medicine Certification Review (Holistic Medicine Review Series Book 1)

This study identifies themes of the lived experiences of three cancer patients. Follow their journey as they reveal the need for emotional understanding along with physical healing.

Far too little is known about what individuals go through when they hear those dreaded words, "You have cancer," and then have to deal with that information and the subsequent treatment. This pilot study helps us begin to understand what people experience and what they need from others in coping with this experience. Providing the necessary emotional support may prove to play a significant role in the individual's healing process as their traditional medical treatment. I highly recommend reading this important work.
